'Pony' in park

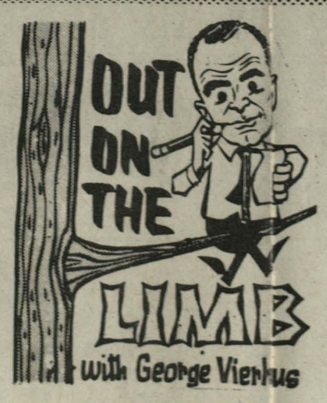
Campbell-Moreland Pony League, world champions in 1964, will become "tenants" of Campbell's Rincon Park as a result of City Council action Monday.

Acting on the recommendation of Don Hebard and Henry Cary of the Parks and Recreation Commission, the Council granted the league permission to develop, improve and use the ball field at the park.

Early issue

Both news and advertising deadlines for The Campbell Press will be shoved ahead for next week's issue which will be delivered Tuesday, July 2, instead of Wednesday (July 3).

Present plans call for the staff of The Press to take a double holiday on Wednesday and Thursday, July 3-4 and be back on the job again Friday, July 5.



THAT HARRIED LOOK that appears so often on the faces of so many administrators of the various governmental entities at this time of year, the close of the fiscal period, can be attributed in most instances to a bad case of "budget-itis".

The administrators of school districts, cities, counties and the varied other tax-supported districts all seem to have been bitten by the same bug and affected by the same malady about the same time every year.

And there seems to be only one sure cure for the ailment.

When the budgets are approved by the governing bodies concerned, the "disease" disappears.

And when that happens with a minimum amount of gaff, the harried look disappears as if by magic. At least for another 12 months.

To correct any misunderstanding that might have arisen, we are well aware that the preparation of a budget is not an overnight task.

It is almost a continuous process extending over 12 months.

BUT THE CLIMAX DOES come in June when the moment of truth arrives for the staff.

They must defend the projections made the year before and at the same time anticipate the next 12 months.

Their projections don't always have to hit the target, although they had better not miss too far one way or the other.

It is sort of a Russian roulette played with sharp pencils.

Hence that harried look that so often is worn by administrators at this time of year.

But city and district managers and superintendents somehow manage to survive "budget-itis" and we have yet to hear of a fatality caused by that seasonal disease.

Now, we have nothing against administrators.

In fact some of our best friends belong to that breed.

But we try to avoid "fiscal" contact with them at this time of year.

It is too nerve-wracking.

Besides, this "budget-itis" thing could be catching.

And our problem is vastly different than theirs.

We can budget our anticipated expenses very nicely, thank you.

But that income column is what leaves us cold and shaky.

It is just a hope column at its best or worst.

There are no tax subsidies to bolster it.

And that does make a difference.

Or had you noticed?

BUT DON'T GET US WRONG...

Budgets are essential for a business or a home, even if one does have to guess to a degree as to how things are going to go incomewise.

Budgets are not only essential but are also required for governmental agencies.

And, we must admit, that, although it is pretty dull reading, we do manage to scan a number of 'em.

For example, we have just finished skimming through the rather impressive document, the 1968-1969 preliminary budget for the City of Campbell.

The chief architect of this massive missive (relatively speaking for Campbell, that is) is City Manager Bob Stephens. But top billing as a co-author must also go to Geoffrey (Jeff) Whitaker, finance director.

And, of course, other city department heads participated.

Dollarwise the budget tops the previous year by $900,000, mainly because the city has sold $500,000 worth of improvement bonds already and anticipates selling another $150,000 before the end of the next fiscal year.

Reasonably enough, we think, it took 10 more pages this year (101 compared to 110) to tell the city's fiscal

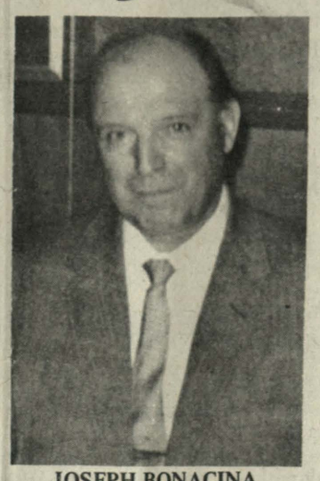
City attorney resigns



JOSEPH BONACINA --resigns

Campbell's first and only city attorney, Joseph Bonacina, on Monday night submitted his resignation to the City Council. He asked that it become effective on December 31, 1968.

A shocked Council did not act on the resignation Monday, but took it "under advisement".

Bonacina, who was appointed city attorney in April, 1952, one month after the city was incorporated, will have served almost 17 years as the city's legal advisor when his resignation goes into effect.

Bonacina's letter, which caught the councilmen by surprise, did not give any reasons for the resignation. The attorney handed his letter to City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan and asked her to read it to the Council.

Bonacina did not expand on his letter orally later except to mention that his 16 years as city attorney was a long enough time and was time for someone else to take the job.

He emphasized that he was not retiring and that he would continue with his private practice from his San Jose office.

Street and fire station

Council approves two city projects for $400,000

Two improvement projects, a fire station and a major thoroughfare, that will total more than $400,000 when completed received the green light from the City Council Monday night.

The Council gave unanimous approval, subject to subsequent Planning Commission action, to the preliminary plans of Fire Station No. 2. Cost estimates indicate that the station will exceed $300,000.

Approval was also given plans and specifications for the improvement of Hamilton Ave. (west from Bascom). The job is estimated to cost $135,000. Council also approved calling for bids for the job.

That long-awaited street improvement project will extend from the Bascom intersection to the freeway. It will expand the road, the heaviest traveled non-freeway in the county, to six lanes and will include an additional bridge.

Charles Peterson, of the architectural firm of Peterson & Hawley of Palo Alto, described tentative plans for the fire station and training tower that will be constructed on the city-owned property on Sunny Oaks.

Peterson estimated that site work, including paving and fencing would cost $32,500, and training tower $64,209 and the total construction cost would approximate $280,000.

Other costs for the development of the site could further hike the cost, the architect added.

OTHER ACTION

In another matter on the agenda, a motion had to be made twice before approval was given the parcel map for property owned by Joseph Giannini on the west side of S. Bascom Ave. where the new Sherwin-Williams Paint store is located.

The lot split, separating the rear portion of the property from the front and the 25-foot easement to get to it had gained the prior approval of the Planning Commission.

But a majority of the Council felt that it was poor planning to have only a 25-foot easement to the rear portion of the property which was larger than the front part.

So it was voted down 3-2.

Councilmen Ralph Doetsch and Ed Rogers favored the plan while Mayor Bill Smeed, Councilmen Homer Hyde and Dean Chamberlin opposed the plan.

But it was explained by City Attorney Joe Bonacina that the Planning Commission had the authority to grant the easement (which had been done).

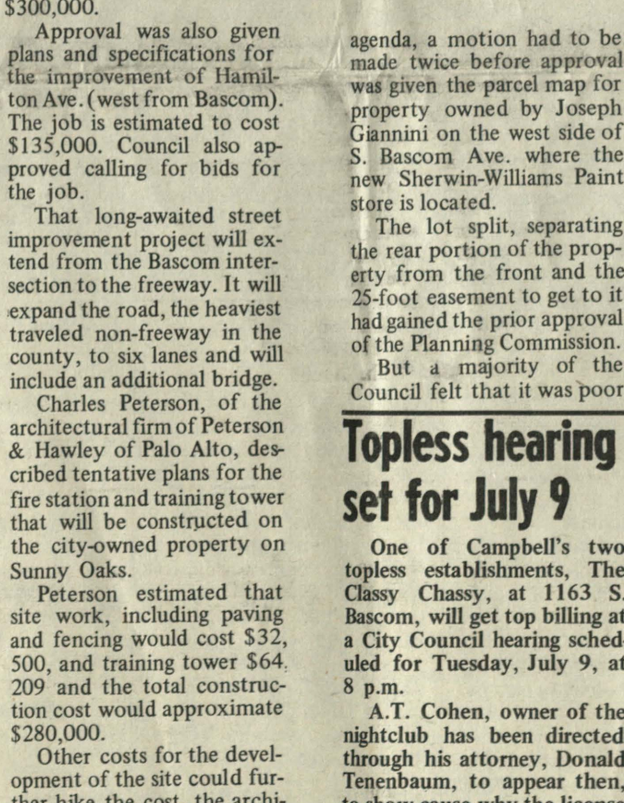
Thus the only thing the Council was acting on was the parcel map.

Therefore the second time the same motion was made, it received an unanimous vote.

Topless hearing set for July 9

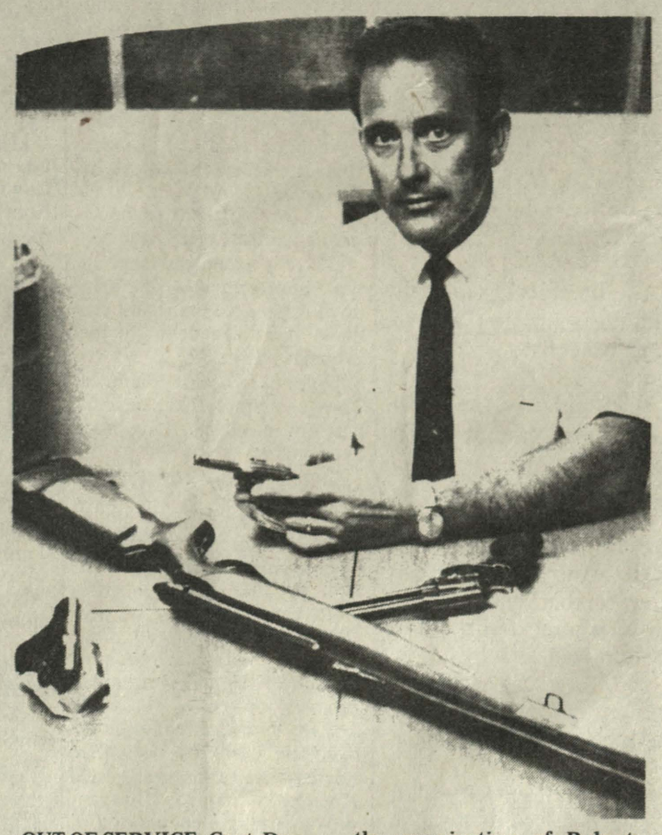
One of Campbell's two topless establishments, The Classy Chassy, at 1163 S. Bascom, will get top billing at a City Council hearing scheduled for Tuesday, July 9, at 8 p.m.

A.T. Cohen, owner of the nightclub has been directed through his attorney, Donald Tenenbaum, to appear then, to show cause why the license for the business should not be revoked, based on reports filed by the police department.



RETIRES--John Duncan (right) recently was honored at a retirement luncheon hosted by the administrators of the Campbell Union (elementary) District. Duncan, who served the district for 19 years, was awarded a certificate of merit on behalf of the district by Vernon L. (Bud) Armstrong, (left) board president.

Duncan, who resides at 125 Union Ave., is a native of Campbell, a graduate of the local schools and San Jose State. His graduate work was done at Stanford. Duncan served as principal of Moorpark and Castlemont schools.



OUT OF SERVICE--Capt. Don Burr, Campbell PD displays four guns which were turned into the department following the assassination of Robert Kennedy. Two of the weapons are extremely small, easily concealed types.

Local gun situation appears hit or miss

The gun situation in Campbell took a giant four steps forward recently, and this past week, took a decisive five steps backward.

Immediately following the assassination of Robert Kennedy, owners of three hand guns and one rifle turned their weapons over to Campbell Chief of Police John Morgan. Most remained anonymous. Several said they just didn't want the guns around anymore

One gun was a purse-size 25 automotic, loaded. Another was a 38 rather snub-nosed revolver--called "The American".

The third hand gun was the kind that the kids have--except that theirs only fire caps--a Colt single action 22, called appropriately "Frontier Scout".

The rifle was also a 22--a heavy looking cumbersome weapon.

What disposition will be made of the guns, we asked Capt. Don Burr? Logged in as city property, the guns will simply be "held" for the time being.

We asked both Burr and Chief Morgan how they felt about the gun laws which are pending legislation. Burr replied that he felt that while the laws themselves were not sufficient to stop crimes, he

Tower splits Council

On Monday night for the first time since the dramatic 17-story civic center proposal was presented by Fred Sahadi in April, an official vote of the City Council indicated the divided feelings of the councilmen on the tower issue.

The tower was favored by a 3-2 count.

Opposing any further exploration of the tower concept were Councilmen Ed Rogers and Ralph Doetsch while Mayor Bill Smeed Councilmen Homer Hyde and Dean Chamberlin favored following the recommendation of the city's bond counsel, Orrick, Herrington, Rowley & Sutcliffe, the San Francisco law firm that had been asked to handle legal matters on the tower at the suggestion of City Attorney Joe Bonacina.

In a lengthy letter to the City Council, Nathan D. Rowley, a senior partner of the eminent group of barristers, suggested that time was of major importance in the negotiations and that resolving the many intricate legal problems involved could be a lengthy procedure.

CONTACT SAHADI

The attorney recommended that the developer (Sahadi) should be contacted to see how his own development schedule was involved and whether he could delay matters until all the legal snarls could be unraveled.

If Sahadi could not wait for the legal answers to be forthcoming, it was indicated, then it was no use to proceed further.

It was on that issue then that the Council split.

Summer job program places many youngsters

Through the joint efforts of city staff personnel and the Chamber of Commerce, 84 youngsters between the ages of 16 and 21 have already been placed in productive and profitable jobs for the summer, according to Carl Kuhn, city administrative assistant.

Approximately 111 applications for jobs have been received.

A job placement center has been established at the city hall with the assistance of Mrs. Catherine Green, city personnel assistant and personnel from Pacific Telephone who aided in the phone campaign.

Len Edholm, C of C manager, has worked with Kuhn in directing the most successful youth employment program ever undertaken in this community.

Both Kuhn and Edholm emphasized that they are still seeking jobs for the many youngsters now on vacation from school. They ask any employer who can use a youngster between 16 and 21 to contact them at once. Kuhn can be reached at the city hall (278-8141) and Edholm at the C of C office (378-6252).

Kuhn said that one of the difficulties has been placing a youngster in the proper job. He said that although approximately 148 jobs had been located, only 84 youngsters had been placed because that many of the jobs offered required certain skills, had certain age requirements and/or special working hours were desired.

Kuhn also said that some local businessmen had employed youngsters on their own without notifying the placement center which would raise the job total for the area.

According to the placement center, Bob Harrison, IBM plant manager in Campbell, has been instrumental in employing 19 youths while Bill Mitchell of the Bonanza Home Center has placed 10 and Earl Nichols of Campbell Drugs has employed five.

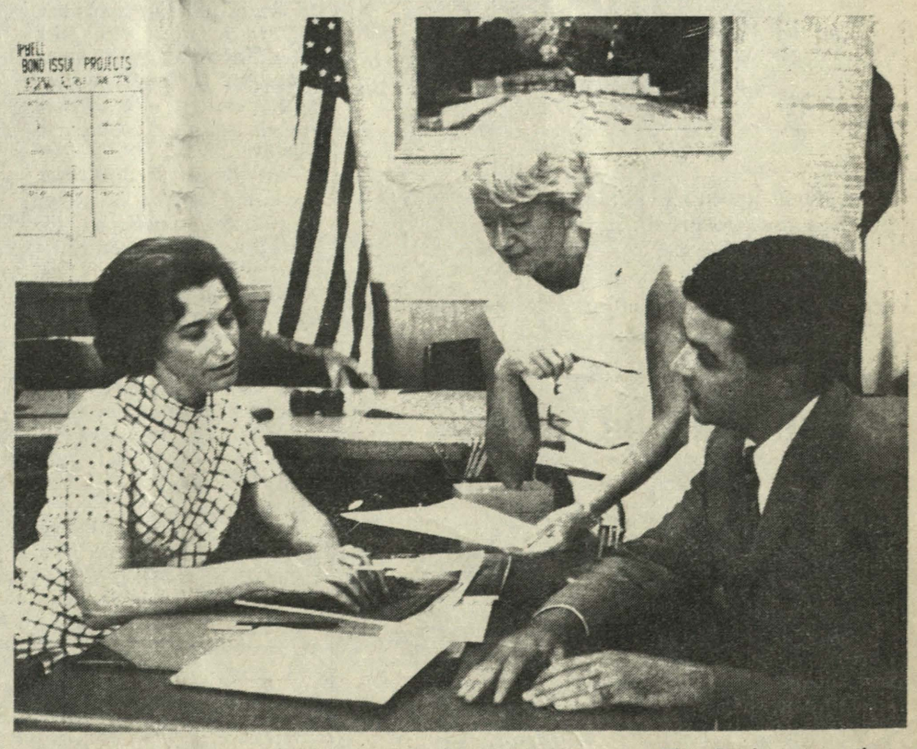
Harrison, Mitchell and Nichols are all directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

Others reporting employing youngsters include: Elton Admire, administrator of Campbell Community Hospital, four; Campbell Cage Co., one; Mrs. Eva Esquerra of Economy Cleaners, one; Phil Luoto of Luoto's Restaurant, two; Miles Tully of Campbell Office Machines, one; John Mangin of Jack's Frosty Freeze, three; Norman Paul of Campbell Plaza Theater, two.

Other firms in the area listed by Kuhn that have cooperated in the summer youth employment project include, The Yardstick; Martin Plumbing; MacLean's Men's Store; Ken's House of Pancakes; Andy's Cocktail Lounge; Campbell Auto Towing; Central Garden and Landscape Co.; Baker Trailer Sales; Holiday Magic Cosmetics; Dave's Muffler Service; Garman and Callahan; Woldram's Electrical Service.

Kuhn also pointed out that the Campbell Cooperative Dryer, 46 S. Central, had notified his office that the firm plans to employ 25 to 30 young men between the ages of 18 and 21 for a six-week period beginning August 1.

He also said that Blendwell Interiors had six potential selling jobs for young men age 21 and above.



JOB HUNTERS--Mrs. Phyllis Whitaker (left) of Pacific Telephone discusses with Mrs. Catherine Green, personnel assistant for the City of Campbell staff, and Jerry Arca, Pacific Telephone manager, the various problems that have arisen in the summer youth employment program.

Mrs. Whitaker was "loaned" by the telephone company to assist in the phone campaign to locate jobs for youngsters. The city in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce is promoting the project that has located 148 jobs in the area thus far and 84 youngsters have been placed.

Editorial

Commendable project

One of the most commendable and worthwhile projects ever undertaken in this community has been the summer youth employment program, a cooperative venture in which the city administration, the Chamber of Commerce and the West Valley Economic Opportunity Commission have participated.

The wide-spread effort to locate potential jobs from local business firms has been highly successful thus far, although there is an urgent need for many more jobs for youngsters.

We are particularly pleased by the manner in which the city administration and the C of C have made a joint venture of this worthwhile community project.

A big assist has also been given the program by the Pacific Telephone Co. which has provided personnel in the conducting of the phone campaign, so highly essential if the necessary contacts are to be made with business firms.

This joint community venture illustrates graphically the importance of community coordination and cooperation in the achievement of objectives.

It also illustrates almost as graphically that goals that often appear too distant can be attained if various civic organizations work together as a unit.

One of the weaknesses in the past in this community has been the lack of coordination among various community organizations in citywide projects. Many service clubs, for example, have embarked on worthwhile programs that sometimes are duplicated by other groups and thus some of the effectiveness is lost.

In many instances this duplication is the result of a lack of communication among the various civic bodies.

We are heartily in accord with a community joint effort as illustrated by this summer youth employment program in which the city administration and the C of C have played major roles.

We sincerely hope that this same type of coordinated community effort will be applied to other communitywide projects in the future.

College future

Members of the West Valley College Advisory Committee are scheduled to meet today (Wednesday) in the first, we assume, of a series of study sessions concerning the need of submitting a bond issue to the electorate for the purpose of securing funds to complete the college's capital improvement program.

The advisory committee's study sessions are the direct result of a previous action of the committee on May 22 concerning a proposal of Trustee William Homan suggesting a bond issue election in 1968. Such an issue would have included funds for the present site development, and, in addition, for the development of a college administration center in Campbell.

Committee members, in their May meeting, voted to defer action on Homan's specific proposal but recommended that the college governing board direct the committee to make a study of the timing and structure of a bond issue.

The governing board on June 6 requested the committee to undertake such a comprehensive study.

Today's meeting of the advisory is a result of this direction.

The board has suggested that the study include (but need not be limited to), (1) a capital facility determination for the next five years; (2) the estimated cost of the facilities; (3) the amount of the bond issue; (4) the timing of the bond issue; (5) a determination of the most effective means of securing support to the acceptance of the bond issue.

These are commendable objectives to be covered in the study sessions.

The Campbell Press has already emphasized that unless provisions are made in any proposed bond issue for financing some college facility in this city, this paper will oppose any bond issue.

If this paper, because of that attitude, is accused of being selfish and provincial...so be it.

We believe that this community deserves more consideration than has been given it in the past.

story.

After all, almost a million bucks more are involved this year than last.

Roughly that figures out about $100,000 per page.

WHEN THE DOWNTOWN revitalization committee met recently there was considerable criticism leveled at the city for not having done anything to improve "downtown" Campbell Ave. over the years.

Tony Raffanti, a major property owner in the area, pointed out that the street was in such a sad state of disrepair that it caused the wheels of his car to get out of line, regularly, forcing them to be realigned almost every month.

Tony pointed out that all the improvements to the downtown area that had been made had been done by the property owners.

No one, of course, disputes Tony's charges that the city has not done anything in a material way.

But it is not because the city really has not tried to help.

Thousands of dollars have been spent on surveys, studies and preliminary engineering work (especially for the off-street parking district that failed to materialize because of lack of support from some property owners).

The big stumbling block over the years has been that no plan that has been suggested apparently has met the approval of all the people on the street.

A GOOD SIZED MAJORity of the downtown group voted (8 to 3) the other night in favor of the civic center remaining in the downtown core.

The majority opposed locating the city hall in the tower as proposed by Fred Sahadi at Campbell and Bascom avenues, less than a half-mile away from the core site.

That vote of the committee members really was not surprising. Naturally the first impulse of property owners in an area like the so-called downtown core would be to block anything that would, in their opinion, be detrimental to their own welfare.

Shucks, that's basic. Self-preservation is still the fundamental principle for all of us.

And conversely we have yet to see anyone advocating a position that would cost him dough.

We find no fault then with this so-called "self-preservation" routine for the "downtown" people. Provided, of course, that a clear-cut analysis has been made of all the ramifications involved and the property owners are CERTAIN they will be hurt, if the civic center goes into the tower. They may know something, we don't know...

We happen to believe otherwise.

WE SINCERELY THINK that the tower idea will be a shot-in-the-arm to the entire town. It directly will benefit the downtown core in the long run, without the subsidy from the taxpayers that will be necessary if the civic center remains where it is.

And, for the record, while we are at it, if you will allow your editor to put on his other hat for the moment, we also speak as a substantial "downtown" property owner, and who agrees with Dick Bicker, of the Campbell Rock Shop, that the tower concept is the greatest idea to have ever hit town and is bound to help everyone.

We thought that Bickers' response to Charlie Rose, former councilman, at the downtown group meeting was especially effective.

Although no longer on the City Council or a member of the downtown committee or a property owner on the street, Rose had taken considerable time at the committee meeting to recount events and mistakes of the past relating directly or indirectly to Campbell Ave.

Bicker replied that he was not interested in the past mistakes or what had transpired 10 years ago as described by Rose, his concern was the future of Campbell.

In our opinion, it could not have been said better.

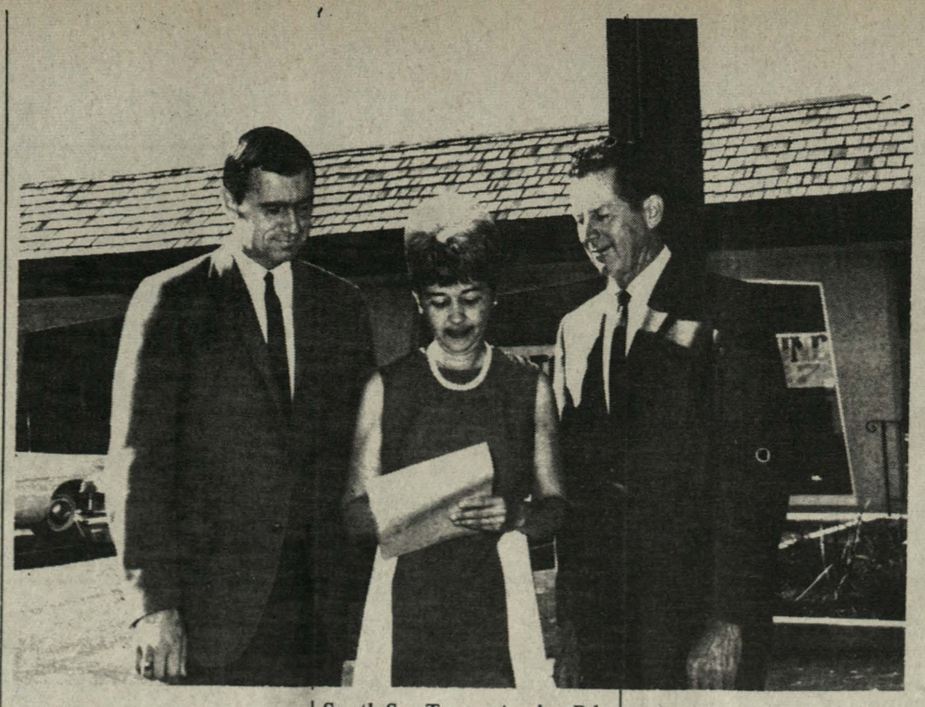
THAT SO-CALLED "LOOP system" in which one-way streets on both sides of Campbell Ave. would carry traffic through town, does not meet with the approval of all the members of the downtown committee, we were surprised to learn the other night.

This graphically illustrates then how difficult it has been to move toward a common objective in the downtown core...

Dobie Jeffers, a long time merchant, property owner and downtown committee member, maintained after the meeting that he did not believe the loop system was the right answer to the problem.

So what else is new?



MANAGERS CONFER--City, Chamber of Commerce and Goodwill managers conferred together over the opening of the new Goodwill store at 60 South San Tomas Aquino Rd. Official dedication ceremonies are set for 10 a.m. Thursday, June 27. The store will open for business immediately after the dedication. Left to right are Robert Stephens, Campbell city manager; Mrs. Thaine Carvell, manager of the new store and Len Edholm, Campbell Chamber of Commerce manager.

Goodwill store opens Thursday in Campbell

A Goodwill store, located at 60 S. Tomas Aquino Rd., in the Kirkwood Shopping Center, will officially open its door Thursday immediately following the dedication ceremonies planned for 10 a.m.

The new store, which will employ 8 handicapped job trainees, as sales personnel, was located in the Campbell area following the results of a survey which showed that over 53% of the people in the Campbell, Cupertino and Los Gatos areas had shopped in Goodwill Stores more than once and 29% would welcome a store in their area.

The new store will be a complete department store in every respect, handling every item that a home maker could use, plus collectors items. Sales personnel in the store will be learning the arts of selling, public contact, making up sales receipts and other related jobs that will serve as training ground so that eventually the handicapped person will be qualified to go out into the world and hold down a paying job.

The sales trainees will be under the direction of Mrs. Thaine Carvell, who has had many years of experience in find merchandizing. Howard Heckendorn will serve as assistant manager.

All proceeds from the Goodwill Industries stores are used in their vocational rehabilitation program to train handicapped people and the material presented for sale has been refurbished, and fixed "good as new" by workers in the Goodwill shops learning trades. The articles offered for sale represent many hours of job training by handicapped trainees earning while they learn skills to fit them for regular jobs. During the past year 908 handicapped men and women received Goodwill on-the-job training.

Building permits keep up record pace in city

For the first five months this year, the building permits issued in Campbell have almost doubled those issued during the same period last year, Wally Byron, city building official, reports.

And the increase is due largely to a "boom" in single-family dwellings.

Byron said that through May this year, the building permit total has reached $3,653,743, compared to $1,884,241 for the same period last year.

If the same trend holds throughout the rest of the year, a new building permit record will be set for the city, Byron predicts.

There have been 62 permits issued for single family dwellings this year for a total of $1,344,201 compared to only 39 last year to date for $727,885.

During May this year, for example, there were 31 permits in this category for $636,107 while in May last year only 13 permits were issued for $242,496.

During May this year there were 16 permits for duplexes and multiples for $537,630 while in the same month last year there were only three such permits for $98,478.

Last year for the first five months there were only a total of six such permits issued for $282,918, this year for the same period there have been 30 permits totalling $1,095,279.

There has not been the upswing in commercial and industrial building as there has been in the residential field.

Seven commercial permits for the first five months have totalled $412,032, and eight industrial jobs hit $562,147. There were three industrial building permits issued in May for $180,378 and one commercial for $7,560.

However, last year for the first five months there were 15 commercial building permits issued for $599,725 and eight industrial for $134,966.

The "boom" is even more noticeable in swimming pool construction. So far this year there have been eight swimming pool permits issued for $26,100 compared to only two such permits issued in the same period last year for $6,100.

did feel that any such step was a step in the right direction.

Morgan assented and added "I think we're attacking the gun problem in the same way we attacked the narcotic problem...in the wrong places.

However, any reasonable legislation can assist in aiding the immediate situation."

Morgan pointed out that, presently, gun purchasers must wait five days after applying to buy a gun before they may take possession of a weapon... if they buy it from a licensed gun dealer, and not from a private party.

During the five day period, the purchaser is checked through Sacramento, to make sure they haven't been convicted of a felony, etc.

Eventually their request (often several weeks after the five day waiting period) lands on the desk of the Chief of Police within whose jurisdiction they reside.

Although many applicants have "records" unless they actually have a narcotic or felony CONVICTION, there is nothing to stop their possession of a weapon. So a suspected assault, child molestor, drunk and disorderly, etc., still is allowed to legally make the gun purchase.

Morgan received five notices this past week that guns had been purchased in the area. The average per month is one.

Tower

cilmen had indicated at various times previously their own feelings on the "tower vs. downtown" matter, the vote on whether Sahadi should be contacted was the first official division on the issue for the record.

The long letter from the law firm touched on many of the legal problems that would have to be resolved before the firm would give the city its opinion on the situation.

Rowley, the letter writer, indicated that his firm would be willing to take the job, if the City Council so desired.

He explained that the cost of the legal research and developing the opinion would have to be based on the time spent.

Time spent by senior partners was listed at $60 per hour; junior partners at $50 and associates at $35. The legal work thus far had cost $615 it was pointed out.

Prior to the Council splitting 3-2, a motion made by Rogers was carried unanimously specifying that the Council would consider the other matters contained in the letter and notify the law firm of its action at a later date.

COMMITTEE

The only other "tower" matter Monday night was the report made by John Faber, chairman of the Downtown Revitalization Committee.

Faber said that the committee had voted 8-3 for the civic center to remain downtown. The committee also recommended the expenditure of $25,000 by the city to resurface Campbell Ave.

The downtown committee met last Wednesday. Most of the discussion of that meeting concerned the various methods and plans for the improvement of Campbell Ave.

Members of the committee indicated to Chairman Faber, after he had reviewed the report made in 1962 which also recommended the downtown civic center site, that they were ready to vote on the civic center issue without further discussion.

Tony Raffanti made the motion to have the civic center remain downtown and G.E. (Doby) Jeffers seconded it. Joining them in voting for it were Faber, Dick Hardy, Bill Ward, Bob Dodge, Walter Silberbauer (IOOF) and Dr. Paul Werthman. Favoring the tower were Don Kennedy, Dick Bicker and Mrs. Veva Chamberlin (Country Women's Club.) Absent were Jack Payne and Bill Hedley.

CONVENTION BOUND--Lowell Benson, past lieutenant governor of District 12, Kiwanis International, will be representing the Kiwanis Club of Campbell next week as he attends the 53rd annual international convention of Kiwanis International in Toronto Ontario. Benson, accompanied by Mrs. Benson, plans to leave Thursday morning, and will stop off in Chicago to visit with daughter Betty before going on to Toronto. Benson has been an active Kiwanian since 1939 and has served in many capacities in the local organization, and as president in 1949, as well as Division Sgt. of arms for 12 years. The Division is composed of 16 clubs in the Santa Clara Valley and is a part of the California, Nevada, Hawaii district.

Benson is the owner of Benson's Campbell Cleaners, one of the oldest business establishments in Campbell.

Don Chamberlin claims bride

MRS. DONALD CHAMBERLIN

The First Methodist Church Chapel in Ventura was the setting for the Saturday, June 22 afternoon wedding of Miss Judith Ann Kohr and Donald Dean Chamberlin. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. James A. Rogers.

An A-line skimmer of white linen was chosen by the attractive brunette bride for her wedding gown, featuring a bodice and cap sleeves of venice lace flowers with a panel train trimmed with lace flowers. Her veil was held in place with a circlet banded in the same material as her dress and she carried a white daisy and yellow rose bouquet.

Mrs. Roland Thibeault of San Diego was the brides only attendant, and complimented the bride's attire in a long yellow linen gown with a white and yellow overblouse trimmed with daisies, accented with a white and yellow daisy bouquet.

Judith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Everette Kohr of Ventura. A graduate of Pomona College she received her M.A. from Stanford University and is presently employed as a math teacher at Del Mar High school. Mrs. Chamberlin in a platinum gray suit of hand-woven silk completed the wedding picture.

Following the wedding reception buffet held at the Port Hueneme Officers' Club, the new Mrs. Chamberlin wore a blue linen dress with white accessories accented with a daisy corsage for her going away ensemble.

Letters to the Editor

PARK RESTROOM

Dear Mr. Vierhus:

Regarding Mrs. Cook's letter which was carried in your June 5 publication, I have been directed by the Parks and Recreation Commission to respond to her discussion concerning the Campbell Park restroom situation.

The Commission, as well as the responsible City Department, has been concerned for some time about the problem of providing a clean, well-kept facility for the convenience of the "responsible" public throughout the week. Attempts toward this end have simply proven impossible because of the invariable acts of vandalism and destruction which occur during the unattended periods.

Without question, Mrs. Cook would be impressed if she were to personally observe the nature of the offenses and would possibly be happy that the City is attempting to provide that her children are not exposed to them.

To provide for year-round attendants at the park for evenings, weekends, and holidays would either involve excessive overtime for present City parks personnel or the hiring of at least one additional full-time employee.

Each summer, however, certain funds have been allocated for "temporary" manpower - high school boys, etc. - and it will be the City staff's intent in the following months to arrange the hours of these boys so that they may be able to supervise the park in the evenings and weekends while performing their regular maintenance duties. Hopefully, this will be successful in expanding the hours of restroom availability and alleviating to some extent the problem to which Mrs. Cook has referred.

Sincerely,
Don Hebard, chairman
Parks and Recreation Commission

Opening still available for "Y" camp-outs

The camping program of the Southwest Branch YMCA got under way Monday, and "Y" officials report vacancies are still available in many of the sessions.

These include day camps for boys 6 - 9, resident Camp Campbell for boys 9 - 12, and a Mt. Lassen caravan for boys 13 - 15. Youngsters do not have to be members of the YMCA to sign up for one of the camps.

Three day camp sessions will be offered, the second starting July 8-12; and the third, July 22-26. Boys travel to Saratoga Springs campground each morning by bus from pickup points. There they enjoy hiking, crafts, nature study and swimming and are returned in the afternoon. Each session includes one overnight stay.

The Camp Campbell sessions are July 13-20 and Aug. 10-17. Located on the San Lorenzo River, youngsters participate in boating, swimming, fishing and hiking. Boys at the camp are housed in cabins.

The Mt. Lassen trip will be by bus and includes fishing, sightseeing and hiking, including one climb to the top of Mt. Lassen to see the once-active volcanic craters.

Boys can register for any of the camps at the Southwest headquarters, 16500 Mozart Ave., Los Gatos, 356-7126.

A camp session for girls 9-12 also is scheduled and information about it is available from the Camp Branch office in San Jose, 1190 Emory St., 298-1717, ext. 38.

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

When the House approved a 10% surcharge tax, coupled with an immediate $6 billion reduction in federal spending and a hold-down of future expenditures, it climaxed one of the greatest legislative battles of U.S. history. In this struggle, the likeable and highly respected Ways and Means Committee Chairman, Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, a 59 year old, Harvard educated lawyer, was the clear-cut victor over another master at parliamentary manipulation, President Lyndon B. Johnson.

There was much behind the scene of this battle of the titans. Actually it was less of a clash of personalities than it was a major confrontation of principles and differing fiscal philosophies. It represented the high water mark of influence of the so-called "new economists" and a marked turn against their belief that manipulation of the tax system to influence the course of the national economy is justifiable.

Back in 1964, Mills, considered one of the most able strategists in Congress, was reluctant to support the major tax cut of that year out of fear that it would produce deficits and inflation. Before the affable gentleman from Arkansas would agree to the tax cut, he first obtained pledges from Presidents Kennedy and then Johnson that, instead of relying so heavily on the government to advance the economy by providing new services, the growth of federal spending programs would be restrained. The fiscal policy of unleashing the private economy to promote economic growth was informally promised.

But the policy was short lived. In 1966 Mills was persuaded by the Administration to suspend the investment tax credit in order to curb inflation. This proved to be a major mistake in tax policy because the economy slowed dangerously in the next few months. Mills was forced to acquiesce in President Johnson's request for a restoration of the tax credit.

The same off again, on again performance was required of Chairman Mills when he was asked to cancel auto and telephone excise taxes shortly after the Administration and Congress had cut them with great fanfare.

So, the powerful Chairman of the tax writing Ways and Means Committee determined that he would not again be made to look foolish by flimsy White House hints at economies and reliance upon the debatable judgment and forecasts of the "new economists".

Instead of dutifully accepting the dirty job of increasing taxes which President Johnson dumped in his lap last year, Mills insisted upon ironclad quarantees that spending would be curtailed if taxes were to be raised. Reversing his normally passive attitude toward government witnesses, he peppered them with statistics and successfully challenged the argument that a tax boost by itself would curb inflation, relieve the balance of payments deficit, and reduce climbing interest rates. Finally he won a victory for the taxpayer when President Johnson agreed to a specific curtailment of expenditure along with the tax increase. With his victory he also proved his long held view that taxation should be levied only to meet the government's revenue needs. Even the "new economists" are not clever enough to use the tax system to fine tune a national economy.
